The Pass Victimized By Holdups

At an early hour on Sunday morning last daring attempts at robbery were perpetrated by parties yet unknown. In an effort to break into the store of the F. M. Thompson Co., a brass and lid was used to crack the edge of one of the large plate glasses and a section of the glass was removed which permitted a man to enter and rifle the store. Several suits and other articles were taken from the window fixtures, and the burglars, after going through all parts of the premises, made successful getaway through a garage door at the rear. The burglars next broke into the bar of the Alberta hotel, where the cash register was broken open and a small amount of cash was taken therefrom. The police were notified, and have since been working in an effort to locate the guilty parties.

On Wednesday night another raid was made by two masked men on a house occupied by two women in the east end of town. On this occasion the men secured a considerable amount of cash, holding the occupants at the point of a gun until a thorough search was effected. The men were seen to disappear from the grounds on horse back. The police believe they are on the right track, and it is to be sincerely hoped that the parties guilty of such holdups will receive their just desserts.

Frank Sanatorium Notes

We regret to have to record this week the death of our comrade, Leslie R. Boyce, who passed away on the morning of Sunday, July 25th. The late Mr. Boyce, who served overseas in the C. A. M. C., had long been a patient here, having come to the Sanatorium in January, 1919. He was an extremely popular young man and a valued member of our little community. Our stringed orchestra, in particular, will feel the loss of Comrade Boyce. The deepest sympathy of all the staff and patients is extended to the family of the late Mr. Boyce in their bereavement.

The billiard tournament has been fought out to a finish, Mr. Whalley carrying off the first prize and Messers. Potter and Hardling taking second and third places, respectively. As was expected, the event was very keenly contested, some remarkably close and well played games taking place. Notwithstanding the hot weather, each game was well attended by a numerous and very appreciative audience. The sports committee are to be congratulated on their excellent handicapping and efficient handling of the tournament.

Mrs. Muir, Miss Ford and Mr. Ramsey have all returned from their holidays, and all report a very pleasant time.

Mr. and Mrs. Forster, of Calgary, paid a flying trip to the Sanatorium this week. They are enjoying a motorcycle trip to various Alberta, and British Columbia points.

Clareholm met their Chautauqua guarantee in one day's campaign of ticket selling, and the committee profited over one hundred dollars from what they term the greatest treat yet. So pleased were Clareholmians with this year's Chautauqua programme that eighty-five persons clamored to sign a contract for 1921.

More than four hundred thousand people are employed in Philadelphia's 9200 industrial establishments.

Town Council Meeting

The regular meeting of the town council was held on Thursday evening last, when Mayor Ewan and Councillors Beebe, McDonald, Montalbetti, Dutil and Gillis were present.

The minutes of previous meetings were approved as read, and the following accounts were passed for payment: J. Achenbach $10.80, W. Oliver $54.90, Alberta Government Telephones $5.65, A. Shearer $63.75, A. W. Robbins $10.00, J. Navick $16.50, J. L. Leslie $72.00, F. M. Thompson Co. $5.95, Blairmore Enterprise $11.00, Blairmore Hardware Co. $29.35, Great West Electric Co. $19.00.

On motion by McDonald Dutil, W. A. Beebe was granted permission to repair a coal shed at the rear of his block.

Two applications for water connection were granted, subject to provisions of waterworks regulations.

The sidewalks question occupied the attention of the council, and it was practically decided that considerable repairs should be effected immediately.

Gillis-McDonald—That all tax arrears up to and including 31st of December, 1919, which are paid on or before the 31st of August, 1920, with permission of the minister, be accepted by the secretary-treasurer without penalty. Carried.

Gillis-Dutil—That ten per cent discount be allowed on current municipal taxes paid on or before August 31st, and five per cent discount if paid between September 1st and October 31st.

W. A. Beebe was elected deputy mayor for a term of three months.

Daylight Passenger Trains Will Not Be Taken Off

Rumor of Possible Cancellation Is Denied—Service is very Popular

During his recent visit to Lethbridge Charles Murphy, general manager, western line, C. P. R., investigated the business being done by the trains on the daylight service to the Crow and Cranbrook. The results of his investigations show that the train is doing a good business and the question of discontinuing that service is not being considered. The Herald has been assured.

Both the passenger and the express business on these trains are very heavy and if thrown back onto the other two trains it would be practically impossible to handle it with the present equipment of those trains.

There has been some talk in towns along the Crow recently that the day light service was to be discontinued, and several protests have reached the Herald against such action. Apparently there is no need of the public becoming alarmed. The service is a very popular one, and with good crops along the line all the way to Lundbreck, west of Macleod, and big business being done in the Pass, the business for these trains will be augmented considerably this winter. Tom Skeyhill
Fiery Anzac Poet

Comes to Chautauqua on Fifth Night with Powerful Recon- struction Lecture

Tom Skeyhill is the fiery young Anzac who raised twenty-three million dollars in less than three minutes in the Metropolitan Opera House in New York, during one of America's Liberty Loan campaigns.

He raised in all over one hundred millions for Uncle Sam. It is easy to understand then why Roosevelt called him "the greatest orator the war has produced." Such results could hardly have been achieved otherwise.

This brilliant young soldier-poet will be at Chautauqua on the fifth night with a reconstruction lecture of real value and intense interest.

Keeping Them on the Farm

At a convention held recently in the province of Quebec and attended by a large number of the clergy, farmers and officials of agricultural societies it was decided to start a general campaign to promote the love of agriculture in rural districts and discourage the exodus of the farming classes to the cities.

The last annual report of the Ontario Department of Municipal Affairs tells the same story that has been recorded in that volume for some years past of a decline in rural population and an extraordinary increase in the population of cities, towns and villages.

Cross statistics for the three Western provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta for this year show a marked decline in the number of acres sown as compared with last year, while in one of these essentially agricultural provinces, Manitoba, approximately one-third of the total population is to be found in the city of Winnipeg.

The condition of things thus disclosed is a terribly serious one for Canada. For some years now it has engaged the thought of public men and students of economics, and those interested in social problems; but, as yet, no one appears to have discovered a solution of the problem which, however, must be solved in the interests of all. It is a problem the solution of which must not be left to governmental bodies alone, but one in which every individual citizen must, in their own interests, take a hand.

Many causes are alleged as being responsible for this exodus from the country to city. Some say it is the loneliness, the isolation of country life, the lack of those conveniences and comforts to be found in the cities, the distance from doctor, druggist, dentist and nurse in times of sickness and accident. Others allege it is the increasing difficulty in securing competent farm help both for the field and the home, and the consequent drudgery and hard work imposed on the farmer, his wife and children, and which, in the case of the latter especially, induces them to leave the farm. Still others say that it is the high cost of living which is largely responsible for the general discontent.

Part responsible for these other conditions, is the fiscal and economic policies of Canada which are designed to encourage and develop manufacturing activities in urban centres and which by their encouragement of commercial and financial businesses lead to the payment of good wages and large salaries in the cities and towns while the farmer has to struggle along under high costs of necessities and at the same time sell his product in the open and competitive market of the world. Finally, it is argued, people have changed; their habits of living are different; the younger generation long for the bright lights, the close companionships, the thrills of the movies, the shorter hours of work, and all the amusements which city life affords in comparison with the long day routine of the farm.

Some or all of these things may be true, but farm life has compensating advantages which are too often overlooked. It is a healthier, much more independent life than the city dweller leads, and in the long run a happier life. If the city worker earns more in wages or salary, he has to spend more to keep body and soul together, and when a balance is struck at the end of the year, it is doubtful if the average city worker is well off as the average farm dweller.

However, the situation exists, and must be faced. If a farmer finds his boys and girls restless and longing for city life he should earnestly strive to find out the cause, and if it is within his power to meet it, to do so. Is it the lack of companionship and association with others which the city affords? If so, the installation of a rural telephone will help, just as it will also serve to bring the doctor and nurse nearer in times of emergency. If this lack of companionship and the absence of entertainment which the city supplies is the trouble, the farmer should interest his neighbors in making provision for a community centre where these drawbacks can be overcome.

We have said that farm life is a more independent life. But many growing boys and girls have not found it so, because of the shortsightedness of their parents. In the city, boys and girls have opportunities of earning something for themselves. The same opportunities should be provided on the farm. A city man does not think of putting his son or daughter in his office and expect them to work for nothing but his own and the general family good. He pays them what they are worth. On the farm the same principle should be applied. If the young men and young women to be paid in cash, there would be encouragement to the ownership of some livestock, or the proceeds of a certain bit of land. They too, should be helped to independence.

United Farmer and Grain Grower organizations, Homemakers' Clubs, and other rural organizations have a wonderful opportunity before them for promoting the success of agriculture by earnestly striving to solve the problem of the exodus from the country to city. Serious study will expose many of the causes, and conscientious and intelligent effort can hardly fail to remove most of them. It will not do to sit idly by and expect governmental bodies to provide a remedy.

Lignite Briquette Board

Manitoba is to be Represented at A Montreal Meeting

J. M. Leamy, representative of Manitoba on the Lignite Briquette Board of Canada, will leave Winnipeg in the near future to attend a meeting of the board to be held in Montreal, it was announced yesterday.

Mr. Leamy stated that satisfactory progress was being made in the erection of the briqueting plant at Bismarck, Sask., and that the board expected that small quantities of the finished product would be on the market this year. It is thought by the members of the board, said Mr. Leamy, that some briquettes will be available by September. The capacity of the factory is 100 tons per day so that even if the factory is running full capacity by September, the output will not materially affect the local coal situation. It was the intention, he said, to distribute the first products of the factory as widely as possible in order that a general report could be obtained as to the efficiency of the fuel—Winnipeg Free Press.

Makes Breathing Easy. The constriction of the air passages and the struggle for breath, too familiar evidence of asthma, trouble, can be relieved by Dr. D. K. Miller's Catarrh Remedy. This is the famous remedy which is known far and wide for its complete effectiveness even under very severe conditions. It is no uncommon occurrence for patients, one with many years of strong asthma, to be cured by this remedy.

Believes Wheat Control is Advisable C. B. Watts, secretary-treasurer of the Dominion Miller's Association, thinks the government's decision not to have the wheat board control the prices this year, is not in the best interests of the country.

"I don't think discontinuing control is the best thing when there is government buying abroad," Mr. Watts said in an interview.

"Under these conditions I think we should continue government selling in this country."

SHORT OF BREATH Could Hardly Walk Without Resting.

When you go to a physician to be examined for any health trouble one of the first questions he asks is: "Are you short of breath?"

Now, when the heart becomes affected, there ensues a feeling of choking, sensation of tightness, breathlessness, throbbing, irregular beating, smothering sensation, dizziness and a pale, sinking, all-gone feeling of oppression and anxiety.

On the first sign of the heart-weakening or the nerves unstrung Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are just the remedy you require to stimulate the heart, and restore the whole nerve system.

Mr. Stephen Crouse, East Clifford, N.Y., writes: "I suffered for five years from heart trouble. I could hardly walk from the house to the barn without resting as I used to get so short of breath. Doctors could do little for me, with the exception of a heart tonic, and I felt better after taking them; three boxes made me quite well. I am now helping my son to work the farm, and can truthfully say, I feel like a different man."

Farm Expert Takes Federal Post

Prof. Hopkins of Alberta Appointed Field Husbandman of the Experimental Farms

Professor E. S. Hopkins, B. S. A., M.S., will on August 1, assume his new duties as Dominion field husbandman for Dominion experimental farms. He will have direct charge of the experimental work in soils and crops at the central farm, Ottawa, and will supervise and co-ordinate the experimental work in soils and crops at the central farm, Ottawa, and will supervise and co-ordinate the experimental work in methods of crop management, crop rotations, and cultural methods in the 19 stations from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Mr. Hopkins has had a wide practical and scientific training. Born and reared on a good Ontario farm near Lindsay, in Waterloo county, he acquired as a boy and young man a foundation for a course in scientific agriculture, a thorough training in practical farm work. After three years study at Lindsay Collegiate Institute, he entered the Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, and in 1911 was graduated with the degree of Bachelor of the Science of Agriculture.

"After two years' work as district representative of the Ontario department of agriculture, Mr. Hopkins came west as an instructor in the Alberta school of agriculture at Vernon. In 1915 he took post-graduate work at the University of Wisconsin, and in 1916 received the degree of master of sciences from that institution. He returned to Alberta, but being anxious to proceed to his Doctor's degree he again spent a year in post-graduate work in soils and crops, this time at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York.

For the last two years Professor Hopkins has been in charge of the provincial soils investigation work in Alberta and has given special attention to the question of moisture. As was stated by the chairman of the recent commission of conservation conference on soil fertility and fibre, the address given by Prof. Hopkins on "Soil Moisture" was a most comprehensive study and showed most clearly the relationship between soil moisture and crop production; and precipitation, temperature and evaporation, of any paper which has been given in Canada.

Mr. Hopkins enlisted in April, 1917, but after training for some time in Calgary was discharged before going overseas.

There are still many important problems to be solved in connection with Canadian field agriculture, and with his thorough practical experience, and wide special training, Prof. Hopkins should be able to contribute many new methods that will increase our crop yield while maintaining our soil fertility.

Lost German Colony

German Settlement in Alberta Was Broken Up During The War

When the war broke out, one of the prominent colonists in Alberta was that of Hussar, which was composed practically entirely of German settlers, many of them former officers of the German army. With the opening of hostilities these men got into bad odor. Fritz Thaden, one of their leaders, was interned with others at Vernon, B.C., and the colony was broken up. Dr. Paul Faber, representing the German Canadian Farming Colony, of London, England, which fathered the project, but he, too, has since vanished and to-day the enterprise is a thing of the past, the memory being revived only by an occasional application in court for foreclosure of the mortgages of the Hussar property, on which the principal and interest payments have not been met. All the principals in the scheme have been deported. It is a lost German Colony.

On the first sign of the heart-weakening or the nerves unstrung Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are just the remedy you require to stimulate the heart, and restore the whole nerve system.

Higher Bacon Price

Price Control in Britain is to be Re-imposed

Good news for Canadian producers is contained in an announcement of the British food ministry that the price-control of bacon, ham and cheese is to be removed. The maintenance of one flat price for all qualities of bacon having proved unsatisfactory. It is proposed to fix differential wholesale prices for Danish, Canadian and American bacon. The Canadian price will be higher, it is understood, than the American, as the bacon is of better quality.

The grievance of the Canadian producers against the British price control will not be entirely removed, however, until the regulations governing wholesale prices are also abolished. The master is one in connection with which much dissatisfaction exists and is to be brought up by representatives of the Montreal chamber of commerce at a meeting of the Imperial chambers in Toronto this summer.

The intimation of the Ministry of Shipping is that the shipping control will be relaxed with not greatly affect Canadian trade, though the action would have been very important a year ago. Controlled freight charges have of late been higher than the ordinary market rates, on account of the drop in the latter.

The British public is now successfully fighting the attempt to run up prices on the part of the farmer as a result of the de-control of horse-killed meat.

On the advice of newspapermen they have been buying imported meat rather than pay the exorbitant price asked and, as a result, the latter are tumbling down again.

The worms that infest children from their birth are of two kinds. Those that find lodgment in the stomach and those that are found in the intestines. The latter are the most destructive, as they cling to the walls of the intestines and if not interfered with work havoc there.

Milk Powers dislodge both kinds and while expelling them from the system serve to repair the damage they have caused.

Western Butter for Chicago

Shipping Large Quantities of Butter To the United States

One of the large wholesale houses of this city, says the Moose Jaw Times, is developing a new market for dairy butter manufactured in the province, it having been learned from authentic sources. This new outlet is the Chicago market, and a number of carloads have been shipped and sold on the other side of the line by this firm. This class of business caters to the farmers in districts at some distance from creameries, where there is no market other than local towns and villages.

Producers receive weekly quotations from the wholesale, and good prices are being paid for the product the quotation last week being 43 cents.

Carload shipments are made from Moose Jaw in boxes and containers of all sizes and shapes just as it is shipped from the producer.

The butter is re-manufactured when it reaches Chicago.

Asks Co-operation From the Farmers

Rural Phones and Good Roads to Link up Farms With The Cities

That the rural districts of Saskatchewan can be assured of an adequate telephone system if the population of the rural districts are willing to co-operate with this government was a statement made by Hon. W. F. Knowles, minister of telephones for the provinces of Saskatchewan, speaking at Henrietta.

"In telephone communication," said Mr. Knowles, "the government is anxious to work out the best policy for the people as a whole." The minister appealed for the districts around Prince Albert to get together and co-operate with the department in devising a system that would link up the farms with the cities.

Another important development of the district Mr. Knowles mentioned was the extensive construction of government roads. These roads were rapidly becoming completed and would not only save the farmers unlimited time and expense, but were opening up new farming territory. Many returned soldiers were now settling on the splendid farm lands.

Canadian Flax for Ireland

Canadian-Grown Flax Seed Has Now Proven Favorite With the Irish Farmers

According to trade commissioner J. Vernon McKenzie, Canadian-grown flax seed has proved a great favorite with the farmers of Ireland where good flax is appreciated. Much seed was imported from Canada during the past two seasons which gave universal satisfaction, and there is every indication that exports from Canada this season will be much heavier.

In the general opinion of a large number of those in touch with the flax trade in Ireland it appears that Canadian-grown flax yields the same results as last year—it will eventually put Dutch seed out of the market and supersede it in Irish farms. Canadian flax seed has met its stiff competition in Ireland from Holland and Japan.

In fact during the past season, the only other varieties of seed grown in Ireland included some of Russia's 1917 output, and Irish seed from County Antrim and County Cork.

Will Watch Wheat Market

The Toronto Globe says editorially: "It remains to be seen what effect on prices here will follow the decision of the Canadian government that the present wheat board will not function so far as this year's wheat crop is concerned, though that right may be exercised under certain circumstances. The reversion to the pre-war conditions of marketing and dealing will be watched with considerable interest."

Purposes of Cultivation

Every time the soil is stirred in cultivation the particles are ground together and they rub or break off finer particles. The little hair-like roots of plants develop in the spaces between the particles of soil. Here is where they get their water, and along with it food materials that are essential to the growth of the plant.

Commutation of Pensions is Now Being Taken Up.

Commutation of pensions, or payment to pensioners of lump sums in final settlement of their pension claims, as provided for by amendments to the Pensions act adopted by parliament is a matter that is now engaging the attention of the board of pension commissioners. These amendments, which were recommended by the special parliamentary committee on pensions provide that members of the forces disabled to an extent between five and fourteen percent, may elect to adopt a final payment in lieu of the small pensions to which they are entitled and are run as low as two and a half dollars a month for an unmarried private with a disability of from five to nine percent.

Liquor Plebiscite Oct. 25

Ottawa, July 13.—The Canada Temperance Act, commonly called the Scott Act, will be voted upon on October 25 in the Yukon territory and the provinces of Alberta, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario and Nova Scotia; and possibly one or two other provinces. The vote will be on the question of whether a provincial-wide Scott Act shall be adopted, and thus prohibit the importation or conveying of liquor from other countries or other provinces into the provinces adopting it. It will be voted on "you" or "no," and one question only. Alexander Smith, barrister and election authority of this city, points out that "the lists to be used will be the lists to be prepared under the new Dominion Election and Franchise Act, as the act has repealed the War Time Election Act and other federal election laws of unhappy memory."

Burnell Ford is Electrical Marvel

Prominent Inventor and Scientist Demonstrates His Genius at Chautauqua

Wireless telegraphy, that marvelous art which has made possible the instantaneous transmission of intelligence between widely distant parts having no apparent physical connection save that of the earth, air and water, is one of the great miracles which appeal to the average mind in either incomprehensible or only explainable through the use of high technical language.

Contrary to this general opinion, however, the whole theory and practice of wireless transmission of signals is capable of the simplest explanation and Burnell R. Ford, the inventor and scientist, who will appear on the opening night of Chautauqua, will give such a comprehensive and clear explanation of these wonders that even the children can understand them.

Swedish Marriage Law is Most Advanced

The new marriage law recently adopted by the Swedish nation is the most advanced in the world. A state of permission, on which one woman—Mrs. Emilia Broome—had a seat, sat for several years in preparation. While the new law is not considered absolutely perfect by the feminist, it is so much better than that which previously existed that they feel nothing but gratitude to Mrs. Broome and her fellow commissioners, whose hard work and broadmindedness made it possible to accomplish so much. It is anticipated that the few improvements still necessary will take long to bring about. As the law now stands, husband and wife are equally responsible for the maintenance of their family. If both husband and wife incomes they contribute the same amount to all household expenses; but if the wife gives all her time to the home the law provides that she has contributed in the same degree as the husband who provides the funds. Both husband and wife have a marital claim in the fortune of the other. That is to say that during marriage neither has the right to squander or mismanage the property to the detriment of the other, and neither has the right to dispose of it without the consent of the other. If the marriage is dissolved by divorce or death the marital property is equally divided. Guardianship of the husband is entirely abolished. A wife may now choose her own domicile, and is then entitled to part of the furniture, etc. Both are responsible for their own debts, in 11 other parents are joint guardians of their children. If they want to dissolve the marriage all they have to do is to apply for separation. This is granted for one year. If both parties still want a divorce when the year is up, it is immediately granted without any more formality. When the divorce is granted both men and the parties the reason must be given and an investigation will then take place.

Reasonable

Solomon and Moses, while walking by the canal, saw a notice board which stated that five shillings would be paid to whoever rescued another man from drowning. It is told that Moses, who was a swimmer, arranged that one should jump into the water and be saved by the other and the reward divided. In short, Sol. said it rather deeper than he expected. However, he splashed about crying:

"Come on in Moses, save me!"

"Sol," he said, "I've been reading that notice board again and it says 'ten shillings for a dead body.' Now, do be reasonable."

When His Hand is on Your Shoulder

When a man ain't got a cent,
And he's feeling cold and blue,
And the clouds hang dark and heavy
An' won't let the sun shine through,
It's a great thing, O my brother,
For a fellow just to lay down
His hand upon your shoulder
In a friendly sort o' way.

It makes a man feel curious,
It makes the tear drops start,
An' you sort of feel a flutter
In the region of your heart;
You can look up and meet his eyes;
You don't know what to say,
When his hand is on your shoulder
In a friendly sort o' way.

A new edition of a map of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta giving the number of quarter sections available for homestead entry in each township with the boundaries and offices of government land agencies has been issued by the Natural Resources Intelligence Branch of the Department of the Interior. This new edition clearly indicates all railways, forest reserves, parks and Indian reserves, also the land which has been reserved for soldier settlement purposes. The size of the map is 24x36 and the scale 35 miles to the inch. The importance of the new edition at the present time is apparent to prospective settlers, officials of banks, railway companies and land agencies, in fact everyone interested in the development of land in the Western provinces. A copy of this publication which is known as the "Small Land Map of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta," may be obtained free of charge by applying to the Superintendent of the Natural Resources Intelligence Branch of the Department of the Interior, at Ottawa.

"Aha, I thought you would McTavish. Says I to Smythe this morning: 'Smythe, it doesn't seem to me that this is a very good piece of business judgment on our part; but, says I, 'Smythe, we must consider others rather than ourselves in this matter. McTavish, now,' says I 'he has a couple of youngsters growing up, and they should secure an education such the Clearview school can give them, and if that's the case, we can't blind our eyes to our duty as Christian men.' Smythe is a good Christian man—and just that soft-hearted that it's no wonder he's affected him. He says: 'Mr. Watson, it's not everything. Go forth on an errand of mercy, and offer Mr. McTavish of Bushwhackers' Place one bright and fertile hundred acres of land in Clearview in exchange for his bit of wilderness.' His very words, McTavish. So I wrote you briefly in order to break the good news gently, and now I am before you to perform an act which, believe me, gives me as much pleasure in a sense, as it does you. I have all the necessary papers, and although the journey is a trying one, I will not complain. I have been five hours in the saddle and have endured a cowardly nigger as guide as far as the Triple Elms. Seems, like between loneliness and mosquitoes, I'm just about fagged out. They are a d—l mean they are a hanged nuisance, mosquitoes."

While his guest unburdened himself, Big McTavish steeped strong tea, and fried strips of bacon. Gloss had not yet returned from the spring. The savory smell of the frying meat whetted Watson's appetite, and he needed no second invitation "set up and eat hearty." He ate wolfishly, his little eyes darting from food to the face of McTavish, his heavy brows working, the muscles of his throat working with bow-like elasticity, as he gulped down huge mouthfuls of meat and bread. At last he pushed his chair back from the table and wiped his mouth on the back of his hand.

"Now, Mac," he said affably, "we'll just have you sign those papers; and I'll turn you over this deed I hold here, in exchange for the one you now have." Says I to Smythe this morning: "Smythe, it's a nice sort of glow, a fellow feels after doing a worthy act, anyway. Think what this will mean to the McTavishes!" And do you know he was that soft-hearted he couldn't answer me, and stood there swallowing with tears in his eyes."

"I'm thinkin' that we won't make any swap," said big McTavish quietly. "Neither me nor Boy nor any of us care to leave this big woods. We've been here so long we've grown into it somehow. You see we're not hankerin' to leave."

Watson sat up with a jerk, and the pipe he was filling fell to the floor and broke into a dozen pieces.

"What?" he cried, "do you mean to say, McTavish, that you won't deal?"

"That's what I mean," nodded the big McTavish.

"And you won't change this block of tangled brush for one hundred acres of good, cultivated land?" Mr. Watson leaned forward. "Are you sure you realize what you are missing?" he asked impressively.

"Ah, I know is, we're thankful to God for what we have now," said big McTavish fervently. "We don't feel like insultin' Him by tradin' what He's given us, sight and unseein'."

"Oh, come now, McTavish," blustered Watson. "You must be crazy. Why, man, you will never get another chance such as the one we offer you. Besides, you can't stay here very much longer, anyway. Of course, you've heard what Colonel Hallibut intends to do with you Bushwhackers?"

A deep line appeared between Big McTavish's eyes.

"We don't want any trouble with Colton Hallibut," he said. "We have that he's on our trail, and if he finds us here. As for you, Mr. Watson, I wouldn't take your hand as a gift, thankin' you just the same."

"Then why in hell have you been lettin' me waste my breath on you for the last hour?" snarled Watson, his face purple.

McTavish stood up.

"That'll do now," he warned. "There's Gloss comin' up the path, and awarin' is somethin' she has never heard in this house, and before I'll have her hear you usin' cuss-words I'll cram this down your throat, and don't you forget it."

He lifted a hairy fist, then sat down and resumed his smoking.

Gloss entered the room, singing blithely. Her shapely arms were bare to the elbows. Her big gray eyes, dancing with life and health, swept the room and rested wonderfully on Watson. He in turn gazed at the girl, and an ashy whiteness wiped out the mottled color of his cheeks. He drew back whispering something under his breath.

"This is Mr. Watson, Gloss," said Big McTavish.

"Good-morning, sir," saluted the girl. "I didn't know that we had a visitor. I see uncle has got you your breakfast, but surely you'll enjoy a glass of fresh buttermilk. I'll fetch it."

She slipped from the room, and Watson looked across at Big McTavish.

"That girl," he asked quietly, "is she your own child?"

The big man looked up, astonished, written on his face.

"No," he answered, "but she's just as dear as though she was our own. Her dyin' mother sent her to us. Why do you ask that?"

Watson was reaching for his cap and rifle. Perhaps, he did not hear the question. At any rate he did not reply.

Fifteen minutes later he mounted the weary gray horse and without so much as a word of adieu rode away through the timber.

McTavish stood on the clearing, his long arms folded, and watched his visitor disappear. Turning, he found the daft child beside him.

"Well, Davie," he said kindly, "hadn't you best run home now, lad? You're all wet with the dew."

The boy waved his arms above his head and imitated an eagle's scream. Then he pointed to the white patch that marked the first blaze of the long trail.

"You mean the man on the white horse, Davie?" asked McTavish, smiling. "Yes, lad, I know."

The boy gaped about him with wide and expressive eyes. Then once more he waved his arms like an ascending eagle, gave a wild call of victory and defiance, and, bending, sped swiftly away and was lost in the heavy shadow.

Then he pointed to the white patch that marked the first blaze of the long trail.

"You mean the man on the white horse, Davie?" asked McTavish, smiling. "Yes, lad, I know."

The boy gaped about him with wide and expressive eyes. Then once more he waved his arms like an ascending eagle, gave a wild call of victory and defiance, and, bending, sped swiftly away and was lost in the heavy shadow.

"Well, Davie," he said kindly,

Last week, in this paper, we used about a foot of space to tell something about the

Maytag
Multi-Motor
Washer

This is but a reminder. If you read the adv. in last week's paper all well and good, and if you overlooked it, it will be time well spent if you find a copy and read it very carefully. It is a hard job these hot, sultry days to bend over a washboard or turn a hand-washer. The MAYTAG Multi-Motor washer, with its powerful, light, compact, half-hour, air-cooled engine built right in as a part of the washer is one thing above all others that should be in every home where there is no electric current. Ask the implement or hardware dealer in your home town where you do your trading to tell you about it. If he refuses, then drop us a line and we will, and will also send you free a copy of the MAYTAG Laundry Manual.

Million Acres

Inundated Areas in Alberta and Saskatchewan to be Drained
Forty reclamation projects involving 400,000 to 500,000 acres of land are planned in Alberta, and surveys are being conducted to determine cost and means of bringing water covered areas into agriculturally useful surfaces. Among the lakes which will be drained will be Sullivan Lake, near Wabamun, Chip Lake, Cygnet Lake, near Entwistle, and certain low lying stretches in the lesser Slave Lake. The scheme will embrace inundated Saskatchewan areas and east of Prince Albert, and 1,000-mile tract between the Carrot and Saskatchewan Rivers will be surveyed this summer.

Nominee for U. S. Presidency Declares Against Inflaming Anti-British Feeling

While delivering an address at a patriotic rally held in Massey Hall, Toronto, under Empire Club auspices, on November 22, 1918, Hon. J. M. Cox, Governor of the state of Ohio, carried the audience with him when he declared that the Kaiser was a criminal and should undergo trial as a common murderer and assassin for violations of international laws. Mr. Cox impressed his hearers by his eloquent declaration of friendship towards Canada and Britain. He spoke eloquently in defense of good relations between America and Canada.

"We are proud of the fact," he said, "that between us is the longest boundary line in the world bounded by the bayonet, unstrung by cannon, eloquent of the fact that the brotherhood of man is born of emotions that carry us and our moral outlook as high as the heavens themselves. We hope that any man in the United States of America, who, in a spirit of mischief, or in a demagogic spirit attempts to inflame our people and pollute the minds of our children against Britain, gets what he deserves."

The Foolish Hun

Only One Thing Keeping Germany From Making Another Bid For World Power

A company of German troops in Berlin who were sent to salute the flag at the French embassy first saluted the flag and then broke into singing the famous war song that was specially intended to express the idea that Germany is supreme over all. The crowd in the streets took up the song and something of a demonstration occurred. The troops, by the way, had been sent to salute the flag in order to make official amends for the action of a mob a few days before in tearing down the tricolor from the embassy staff.

It is useless, of course, to expect that the German people could recover from the feelings which made the war and those which grew out of the war in even two years. But it might be supposed that prudence would play some larger part in restraining their expression of those feelings than it seems to be doing.

While the German ministers at Spa were pleading with the Allies not to cripple Germany in the struggle for economic reconstruction, was hardly a fitting time for German soldiers and the Berlin public to throw insults at any of the Allied states and least of all the whole whose influence goes the farthest, to decide what conditions shall be imposed on Germany. If that is the German idea and how to cultivate good feelings among their allies and to get concessions which are certainly important to the new republic have a good deal to teach before their "democracy" will be safe for themselves. Canada Imports
Agricultural Products

Dominion Bureau of Statistics Shows Need of Co-Operation

Foreign farmers, i.e., those farming land outside Canada, found a profitable market here in the last twelve months for over 143,131 million dollars' worth of their products. Farmers and livestock breeders will find the story told plainly and irresistably in the following abstract from the return of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. It gives the imports of live animals and of animal products into Canada for the last three years ending May 30th (1900's omitted) for 1918, 1919, 1920 and 1921.

Animals living, $2,517, $1,871, $2,494, Hides and skins, $7,885, $5,903, $2,642.

Lard, $63,639, $2,682.

Leather, $640, $15,593, $18,059.

Meats, $17,807, $7,338, $20,220.

Wool, $33,715, $10,940, $7,259.

Total, $72,200, $67,504, $143,356.

Many of these imports are by our export of the same class. That Canadian manufacturers import much of their raw material from abroad, and the Canadian farmers have to export the results of their labor to be raw material in other countries. The needless "crossing" of products and the expense of such transportation might be largely eliminated were Canadian manufacturers might utilize more what the Canadian farms, under the climatic conditions, can best produce; farmers might more definitely aim to produce what for which manufacturers can the best find a market.

A considerable part of the products given above could have been produced in the Dominion and profitably manufactured for Canadian consumers if industry and farming had been more closely related during the last twenty years. — The Industrial and Development Council of Canadian Meat Packers, 186 King Street, W., Toronto.

Belgium's Recovery

Country's Exports May Exceed Imports Before End of Year

Belgium is making rapid recovery from German depredations committed in the world war. At the close of the war 2,000 kilometers of railroads, 1,800 bridges, 600 kilometers of canals, telegraph, and telephone systems and a third of the factories of the country had been destroyed. They have been proceeding steadily since the armistice, and Paul Franchu, the Belgian minister of state, said in the magazine of Wall Street, that the railways, telegraphs, and telephones have been almost entirely repaired. The canals are navigable and many industries have been revived.

Already coal production is a little higher than in 1913, reaching 105 percent of pre-war output in the month of April last. Textile and wool production are gradually being restored to normal and plate glass works are in full operation. The progress has been slower in the steel construction plants.

Exports, he added, to Holland, France, Italy, and Germany surpass imports from those countries. The balance with England is slowly but surely readjusting itself, and from the present indications it appears probable that before the end of the year Belgium will export more than she imports.

It is useless, of course, to expect that the German people could recover from the feelings which made the war and those which grew out of the war in even two years. But it might be supposed that prudence would play some larger part in restraining their expression of those feelings than it seems to be doing.

European Invasion of Canada Assuming Large Proportions

The public department of the C. P. R. states that the great European invasion of Canada has been experiencing since shipping was released is very general and drawing immigrants from a large area. Every continental country, ally and neutral is contributing its quota to the growing stream.

A steamer sailing from European ports for the Dominion is crammed to capacity and the class of Canadian settler was never higher nor of a better type. The vessels of the C. P. R. alone, during April and May, and of this total 15,500 avowed their intention of settling in the Dominion and making their future here.

Forgotten

Memory of even the most important episodes in contemporary history is remarkably short. Six years ago last Monday Archduke Francis Ferdinand was murdered by Principi, a fanatic whose act played into the hands of the junkers and militarists of Germany and Austria and furnished the pretext for the greatest war of all time. Yet few people and few newspapers commented on the anniversary. The date had been almost completely forgotten and it is doubtful if ten persons in a hundred could have recalled the names of the actors in this tragedy.

The motion for the alimony was upheld by the judge, who decided that a marriage between Catholics was indissoluble in the province of Quebec, except by death.

The local band which has been favoring our citizens with musical selections on our principal streets on Saturday nights, and is busy practicing every other night in the mission hall, is somewhat handicapped for light at the hall. A week or two ago we suggested that the public should support the bandmen financially and every way possible. Would it not be a wise idea for the town to connect up the mission hall and furnish light for the boys' nightly practices. The idea of starting a fund for the purpose of buying uniforms, music, etc., is also a good one and we feel sure would be liberally supported by the majority of our citizens who appreciate music and know the value of a good band to a community.

Baron Rempel Kondo, president of a steamship company, said at a dinner he gave recently in New York: "The Japanese are a very clean people. I know an American traveler, half-furnished, made his way one day into a teahouse in a remote Japanese village. A geisha girl ushered him into a spotless, airy room and brought him a cup of unsweetened tea. As he could speak no Japanese, he tried to explain by signs that he wanted a full meal, but the girl, though she smiled politely, failed to understand. So the traveler thought he would resort to another means. He took out his notebook and pencil, drew a fish and an egg, and handed the drawing to the geisha. This time she laughed delightedly, clapped her hands, and ran from the room. The traveler was pleased. He waited contentedly for his meal. Five or ten minutes later, when the door opened and two attendants staggered in with a portable bath, brimful of hot water and a cake of soap.

It Pays to Advertise To Be Given at Chautauqua on Fourth Night

It Pays to advertise: the greatest success in the past decade is to be presented at Chautauqua on the fourth night by the Keighley New York Players. The presentation of this play is a radical departure from the regular line of Chautauqua feature attractions and will undoubtedly be welcomed by Chautauqua patrons.

The play itself is clean and wholesome through and through and packed full of life. It has had sensational runs in all metropolitan theaters. The Keighley New York Players, who will stage this attraction on the fourth night, rank high in dramatic circles. The company is under the personal direction of William Keighley and is an all-professional cast.

Husband Rides, Wife Walks

An Arab on entering a house removes his shoes, but not his hat. He mounts his horse upon the right side, while his wife milks the cow on the left side.

In writing a letter he puts nearly all his compliments on the outside. His head must be wrapped up warm, even in summer, while his feet may go naked even in winter. Every article of merchandise which is liquid he weighs before he buys it.

He reads and writes from right to left. He eats scarcely anything for breakfast, about as much for dinner, but after the work of the day is done, he sits down to a hot meal swimming in oil or boiled butter. His sons eat with him, but the females of his house wait till his meal is done.

He rides a donkey when travelling, his wife walking behind. He laughs at the idea of walking in the street with his wife, or ever vacating his seat for a woman. He knows no use for chair-tables, knives, forks, or even spoons unless they are wooden ones. Bedsteads, bureaus, and fire-places may be placed in the same category.

Bootleggers' Successful Ball

The annual ball of the Pass Bootleggers' Association, held at the opera house on Sunday night last, was a big success. Upwards of seventy couples were in attendance, practically every bootlegger's joint in The Pass being represented. Music was furnished by the Ancient Order of Benevolent Tinhorns and the programme consisted of the following:

Scotch Cocktail Waltz
Half-Jagged American Two-Step
Pick's Fox Trot
Aunt Mary's Ginfizz Quadrille
A Drunk's Circle Two-Step
Military Jag (Walker's special)
Several "Extras" between dances
Irish Cocktail (ladies choice)
A Jag Two-Step
Red's Side-Wink Moonshine Skip
Brunettodominicus Fox Trot
Italian Don't-careadam Minuet
Italian Mixture One-Step
Waltz, between dead soldiers
Moonshine Waltz (Pass the "squirrel")
Echoes of The Parlor One-Step
Home Sweet Home Jag.
(Everybody's Steppin')

The collection at the door amounted to over $160, which will be added to the fund for relief of jail birds.

The next ball will take place on July 1st of next year, when it is hoped that a much larger membership will be represented.

As the funds of the Association are now rather low, owing to unforeseen calamities having befallen a number of members, an appeal is to be made through the attorney-general's department for relief funds.

Perpetual Motion, If--

Tony Hanson has invented perpetual motion in his ground sluicing operations at Poplar creek. He has a flame, a barrel, a coal oil can and a rock. When the water reaches the required depth in the barrel it flows into the tin can; when the can is full it dumps the barrel, and when the barrel is empty the rock swings it back into place. It requires three minutes to fill and empty the barrel, and Tony has only to sit tight and watch the contraption do his development work. Should the barrel want housing, a sun-shade, pyjamas, blankets, etc., it will be bad for Tony's development scheme. The attention of the O. B. U. is called to this barbarous contraption that works 24 hours a day without clothing, eats, blankets or pyjamas. The thing is scabbing on "wage slavery" and soapbox orators. —Kootenaian.

"Keep Sweet And Keep Movin'"

Homely phrase of our southland bright—
Keep steady step to the flam of the drum;

Touch to the left—eyes to the right—
Sing with the soul tho' the lips be dumb.

Hard to be good when the wind's in the east;

Hard to be gay when the heart is down;

When "they that trouble you are increased,"

When you look for a smile and see a frown.

But

"Keep sweet and keep movin'"

Sorrow will shade the blue sky gray—

Grey is the color our brothers wore;
Sunshine will scatter the clouds away;
Azure will gleam in the skies once more.

Colors of Patience and Hope are they—

Always at even in one they blend;
Tinting the heavens by night and day;

Over our hearts to the journey's end.

Just

"Keep sweet and keep movin'"

Hard to be sweet when the throng is dense,

When elbows jostle and shoulders crowd;

Easy to give and to take offense.

When the touch is rough and the voice is loud;

"Keep to the right" in the city's throng,
"Divide the road" on the broad highway;

There's one way right when everything's wrong;

"Easy and fair goes far in a day."

Just

"Keep sweet and keep movin'"

The quick taunt answers the hasty word—
The lifetime chance for a "help" is missed;

The muddiest pool is a fountain stirred;
A kind hand clenched makes an ugly fist.

When the nerves are tense and the mind is vexed,

The spark lies close to the magazine;
Whisper a hope to the soul perplexed—
Banish the fear with a smile serene.

Just

"Keep sweet and keep movin'"

—Robert J. Burdette

A Cure By Proxy

"Doctor," said he, "I'm a victim of insomnia. I can't sleep if there's the least noise; such as a cat on the back fence, for instance."

"This powder will be effective," replied the physician, after compounding a prescription.

"When do I take it, doctor?"

"You don't take it. You give it to the cat in some milk."
